Detailed Synopsis:

WorkingSm@rt in a Hybrid World

Organizations and workers were thrust into a transformational change that left both work and home environments in a state of chaos. The need to understand the impact of the shift from the traditional workplace to a hybrid world provides you with the opportunity to realign and navigate how we work. Traditional work/life balance strategies will need to shift to a more integrated lifestyle to support the hybrid working model.

Globally, for over 40 years, Priority Management has been working to support clients through developing the skills to better manage during changing times and, ultimately, to help them find a better way to work. WorkingSm@rt in a Hybrid World provides you with skills to help you incorporate international best practices of planning, collaborating, executing, and communicating with intention.

Priority Management knows that the #1 trigger of stress is lack of control and with the hybrid world there comes definite uncertainty. This training is an action-based learning opportunity to show you how to increase focus, better manage workloads, view your days' work accomplishments, and gain a sense of control to reduce your level of stress. Participants will learn to identify/create performance measures to clearly define what success looks like in a hybrid world. This supports the individual worker to better self-manage. As well, the workshop reinforces the value of diversity and the creation of a culture of inclusion within teams.

The workplace continues to change and we need to be even more diligent in focusing the four key performance areas known as SWAT.

- Self-Management
- Working Well with Others
- Asset and Resource Management
- Task and Activity Management

As a result of this workshop, participants will be able to turn intentions into actions and understand what makes their colleagues tick so they can better click and be able to start crystallizing how the team can come together to create an effective hybrid working culture.
